THE TRAIL OF THE TEUTONS IN THE BALKANS

At the moment when Sofia constitutes the cynosure of the whole world of observers, it is instructive to reflect that the Balkan states which have been in the world-war "ab origine" are the two whose rulers spring from native dynasties. Both are Slav—the one essentially Montenegrin, the other essentially Serbian. The line of Nicholas I. goes far back in Montenegrin history—for that history, it must be remembered, does not extend farther back than 1389, the date of Kosovo, the Hastings of Serbia, whose survivors became the fathers of the present intrepid little Montenegrin nation. The ancestors of King Nicholas were Montenegrins of the Montenegrins in the days of Ivan the Black—one of the greatest of heroes of Montenegrin history, who, according to national legend, sleeps in a cave like King Arthur in England, destined to re-awake from death when the hour arrives for the expulsion of the Turks from Europe. The founder of the present Serbian royal house was Kara George, the swineherd, so much a man of the people that he could not even sign his own name. On the other hand, we may note that those Balkan states which so far have held aloof from participation in the great struggle for civilization and humanity are those governed by Teutonic dynasties—viz., Roumania, Bulgaria and Greece.

Herein the contingencies which should be carefully weighed in connection with the future of the war. During upwards of a quarter of a century, the King of Bulgaria—the Coburger—has never succeeded in winning the affection, or even the ordinary respect, of the Bulgarian people at large. His glaring insincerity and his phenomenal faithlessness have been by-words among that people since the late 80's of last century. They have frequently threatened him with deposition from his throne and expulsion from the country. The King of Roumania is a Hohenzollern, who fears the Kaiser's warnings that his great riches in the German Empire will be seized if he throws in his lot with the Entente Allies, but his people are bitterly opposed to Austria and Turkey, regarded by them, and certainly with justice, as their age-old enemies and oppressors. In Greece, national hatred is universally directed against the Turks, for centuries their cruel oppressors, still the oppressors of some four millions of the Greek race, and now leagued with the enemies of civilization itself.

At Athens, at Sofia, and at Bucharest, then, national sentiment is defied by the Teutonic occupants of the throne. The chances of three violent revolutions in the Balkan peninsula must never be lost sight of at the present juncture of the war.

WHO MADE IT?

Since our friends of the Anglican Church have been disputing in meeting as to the desirability of including the second verse of the national anthem in the prayer book service, attention has been turned to the anthem and to the second verse in particular, and questions have been asked as to when it was first introduced and for why.

The Toronto Star has been delving into the records to discover if possible who was responsible for both this particular verse and the whole hymn, but can find nothing decisive as to who its author was. It judges that the reference to "politics" and "knaveish tricks" had to do with domestic rather than foreign enemies of the king, and thinks it possible that the hymn was written by Henry Carey, a versatile composer and minor poet, somewhere about the year 1740. The song first appeared in print in the Gentleman's Magazine in the latter part of 1745, but Carey had sung it at convivial gatherings several years before. He died in 1743. As originally printed, and as it was sung for nearly a century, the first line was rendered thus: "God save great George, our king." When William IV followed the fourth George, it was necessary to change the line, and for purposes of rhythm the name was dropped and the line changed to the familiar "God Save Our Gracious King."

The Hamilton Herald thinks there is equally good authority for saying that as originally sung the first line of the hymn read, "God Save Great James, Our King," which would give it an earlier birth and place it in the list of Jacobite compositions the James prayed for being the elder pretender.

As for the tune, its origin is even more obscure than that of the words. It has been attributed to Dr. John Bull, a musician who flourished in Queen Elizabeth's reign; but there is no evidence to support this theory. The best authorities agree that the tune originated in Southern France, where it was popular among the peasantry as long ago at least as the seventeenth century.

BULGARIAN HISTORY

Bulgaria is peopled by a non-Slav race, which had its cradle near the valley of the Volga, and came to Europe with the Huns. For a long time in the Middle Ages the Bulgarians were the masters of the Balkan Slavs, and at times flouted the authority of the eastern empire centered at Constantinople. The Turkish conquest put a new face on affairs. The Ottoman soldiery in 1393 broke the power of the Bulgarian king, and for nearly 600 years the old Bulgaria was merely a Turkish province, with no more ability to stand against the conqueror than Armenia.

About 1870 a Nationalist propaganda began. Vigorous repressive measures, which are known in diplomacy as the Bulgarian atrocities, put Europe in a flame of anger and moved Mr. Gladstone to write a vigorous pamphlet. The Russo-Turkish war of 1877-8 was the direct result, and the battle of Plevna made it possible for the powers to erect the principality of Bulgaria under Turkish suzerainty. The first prince was Alexander of Battenberg, appointed in 1879. He conducted a successful war against Serbia, but his success was not viewed with satisfaction at Petrograd. The Russian bureaucracy desired to support Serbia as a Slav state and to use Bulgaria as a check against Turkey. A coup d'état, brought about by too eager Russian officials, was the kidnapping of the prince and his removal to Russian territory. This was in 1886. The following year Alexander abdicated, and Ferdinand of Coburg, the "old fox" of the Balkans, succeeded. In 1908 the principality was declared an independent kingdom, with Ferdinand as "czar."

The result of the two Balkan wars is well known. Undoubtedly the intervention of Roumania, at a critical period, had a good deal to do with Bulgaria's defeat in the second struggle. Bulgaria therefore has a grudge against Roumania, and a still older one against Russia. It has a grudge 600 years old against Greece and Serbia, and it is willing to suspend temporarily its grudge against Turkey in return for lands and railway concessions. If Bulgaria joins the central empires at this time it will be committing national suicide.

800,000 ARMENIANS HAVE BEEN MASSACRED BY TURKS SINCE MAY

London, Oct. 7.—In the debate in the house of lords yesterday on the Armenian massacres, Viscount Bryce, former British ambassador to the United States, said that such information as had reached him from many quarters showed that the figure of 800,000 Armenians destroyed since May was quite a possible number. Virtually the whole nation had been wiped out, he declared, and he did not suppose there was any case in history of a crime "so hideous, and on so large a scale."

"The death of these people," said Viscount Bryce, "resulted from the deliberate and premeditated policy of the gang now in possession of the Turkish government. Orders for the massacres came in every case direct from Constantinople. In some instances local governors, being humane, pious men, refused to carry out the orders and at least two governors were summarily dismissed for this reason. The customary procedure was to round up the whole of the population of a designated town. A part of the male population was thrown into prison, and the remainder of the population were marched out of town and in the suburbs the men were separated from the women and children. The men were then taken to a convenient place and shot or bayoneted. The women and children were then put under a convoy of the lower end of soldiers and dispatched to some distant destination.

"They were driven by the soldiers day after day. Many fell by the wayside and many died of hunger, for no provisions were furnished them. They were robbed of all they possessed and in many cases the women were stripped naked and made to continue the march in that condition. Many of the women went mad and threw away their children. The caravan route was marked by a line of corpses ever reached their destinations."

"The facts as to the slaughter in Trebizond are vouched for by the Italian consul. Orders came for the murder of all the Armenian Christians in Trebizond. Many Mussulmans tried to save their Christian friends, but the authorities were implacable and hunted out all the Christians and then drove them down to the sea front. Then they put them aboard sail boats and carried them some distance out to sea and threw them overboard. The whole Armenian population, numbering 10,000, was thus destroyed in one afternoon."

The Marquis of Crewe, quoted the British consul at Batoum regarding appalling horrors which he said had taken place in the district of Sason where the population was absolutely exterminated except for a handful of people who escaped to the mountains. There had been a great influx of refugees into the Urmiah and Caucasian provinces, said the Marquis, and a vast number had arrived in the Brin district.

"The consul at Batoum," the Marquis continued, "states that 160,000 refugees passed through Igdir and Etcholdzin. He gives the most horrible description of their condition—ravaged by disease and starving."

"The death rate, among the refugees in one district has been 100 per day. The consul praises the efforts made locally to cope with the needs of the refugees, but says much larger quantities of supplies of food and medicines are urgently needed. At one place, where nine thousand refugees are gathered, it is stated that 50 per cent. of them will die unless relief is quickly forthcoming."

GERMANS USING NEW POISONOUS GAS

Paris, Oct. 7.—A new kind of gas apparently is being used by the Germans in the fighting in the Champagne. Details regarding its effect were given Dr. Lucien Duront by officers he was called to attend in Paris hospitals. According to the written statements of three men who fought respectively at Souvain, Suippes and Moranvillers, they were surrounded for a few seconds by clouds of deep green gas of a rather pleasant odor. These men asserted that soldiers who wore no masks soon were suffocated while those with masks lost consciousness for varying periods. Upon regaining consciousness at field dressing stations they said they suffered convulsive seizures resembling epileptic fits. Upon their arrival at the Paris hospitals they were found to have an extremely weak pulse and to be suffering from general prostration, but showed none of the symptoms hitherto associated with gas poison. It is believed here that Prussian acid is used as the basis of the new gas.

GERMANY NEEDS COTTON

London, Oct. 7.—The Daily Express says the vital necessity of preventing cotton and cotton goods from reaching Germany and Austria is shown by the eagerness of the Germans. It was recently discovered by the Dutch government that German women were being sent over the frontier to purchase in any quantity new and disused cotton goods from households and shops in Dutch towns and villages, the traffic reaching alarming proportions. The Dutch authorities are said to be stopping it.

Everything seems to point to the Boston Red Sox as champion baseballers of the world for this year, they having won yesterday's game by the one-sided score of 3-0, all of which goes to prove that to win world championship series a team must be composed of hitters as well as one or two pitchers. Alexander, one of the greatest pitchers that ever wore a uniform, was expected to be the "big noise" of the series, but up to the present he has failed to disturb the peace and quietness of Beantown. He won his first game all right, but even that, according to all newspaper accounts was a fluke, the Phillies having all the lucky breaks. The Boston team have outgeneralized them in every department of the game thus far, and as we go to press they, the Boston Red Sox, are leading in the race, having won the last three games. Miss Ethel French has opened a millinery store at Albx.

The Medicine Hat Times argues that at the present prices of grain the farmers are getting rich fast enough to "satisfy old Croesus himself." If that is a fact, and assuming that the farmers know what they are talking about, old Croesus didn't have a family to support.

The Medicine Hat Times figures out that at the present prices for grain the farmers of the West are amassing fortunes at a rate that ought to satisfy the greediest amasser on record. This is the calculation by which it proves the case: "Yesterday, a local farmer sold a car of grain to a local mill at 76¢ cents net to the farmer. The farmer got 40 bushels to the acre, so that his crop averaged him a gross revenue of $30 an acre on land worth probably $10 to $15 an acre. Allow say $10 per acre for expenses, and you have a net return of some $20 for every acre cultivated. Surely that is a return enough to satisfy old Croesus himself." It is to be hoped most sincerely that the Times is right, and that without knowing it the farmer is really gathering in returns which would make Croesus sweat with envy. But, without questioning the agricultural information of the Times, a here seems to be something wrong with the calculation. If the land in question is really turning in a profit of $20 per acre it is worth something nearer $150 per acre than $15. Can the owner get that for it—or a quarter of it? If he cannot there must be something the matter with the figuring.

ANOTHER SUCCESS FOR A BENTLEY ORGANIST

Last Thursday, at Knox Church, Calgary, a very interesting organ recital was given by Mr. Arthur K. Putland, L.T.C.L. The rendering of the pieces was much appreciated by the many lovers of music who were present, and at the close of the recital the young musician was heartily congratulated by many admirers. Mr. Putland has officiated at the organ for close on three months, and has also had charge of the trained choir of thirty-five voices. The organ at this church cost $20,000, and is said to be the second best in the whole Dominion, one in Toronto beating it. There are very few musicians in the West who can handle the instrument, as it is very complicated.

One of the finest pieces, rendered in splendid style, was "Russian Patrol" by Rubenstein. It was composed for a full military band and is intended to illustrate the approach, passing by, and gradual ual disappearance of a Russian patrol.

With the aid of the echo organ (in the rear of the building) controlled by the central keyboard, the illusion was doubly effective. The parents and brother of the organist travelled down to Calgary, and were present at the recital. Mr. Putland's local friends will be glad to know that he may be returning shortly to Bentley, and may possibly spend the winter, as he is studying for another examination towards his Mus. Bac. degree, Toronto University.

CENTRAL ALBERTA DISTRICT W.C.T.U.

The third, annual Provincial Convention of the W. C. T. U., held in St. John's Presbyterian Church, Medicine Hat, October 1 to 4, was a splendid success, and the Convention throughout was noted for its spirit of enthusiasm.

The delegates voted in favor of the Province raising $1,000 to assist the Temperance and Moral Reform League to meet their campaign indebtedness. On the first afternoon of the Convention, the delegates were taken for an automobile tour to points of interest in and about the city,—yet in summer bloom.

The banquet in Fifth Avenue Methodist Church was followed by addresses of welcome.

Why Compensation?

There is a wide-spread rumor going the rounds at present to the effect that the Alberta Liquor Interests, who met their Waterloo at the hands of the intelligent electors of Alberta on July 21st last, will at the ensuing session of the Alberta Legislature ask compensation from the Government to recoup them for losses they will sustain when the booze business goes out next year. This plea of the whiskey ring is without any redeeming feature, as it hardly seems feasible for a government to recoup any group of men whose business may have been restricted in the interests of the Province at large.

The liquor interests of Alberta have had it all their own way for many years. Their business is the only monopoly in Alberta, and if they have not made enough money to put themselves on Easy Street it is their own fault. Goodness knows their profits have been abnormal—15 cents per glass for lager beer, for instance.

The people of Alberta or the government owe nothing to the liquor interests. If the hotel-keepers had the faith that the people of Alberta would always stand for the demoralization caused by their business, and built large hotels, went in the hole, as it were, on the strength of this faith, nobody but themselves are to blame if they guessed wrong. All business is more or less of a gamble, and should a grocer put up a building his business did not warrant, and he faced failure through it, is he not just as much entitled to compensation as the hotel-man? He surely is. Why not compensate the keeper of a gambling joint or a brothel when their places of business are closed up in the public interest?

No; the liquor interests of Alberta will receive no compensation, and any government suggesting such a thing signs its own death warrant. The people of Alberta will not stand for compensating the whiskey interests. The government of Alberta has nothing to fear from the liquor interests now. Time was when the liquor people were a power in the land, and their help in elections was eagerly sought by both political parties. That time is long past. The liquor interests have now no political power, in fact from now on defeat will rest with the government or individual on whose side they fight. Let the people of Alberta get busy now on this question. Every member of the Legislature should go to Edmonton pledged to oppose any move to compensate the liquor interests. The people of Alberta have it in their own hands to enforce their will, and the Western Globe is convinced that they will enforce it.

Champion Optimist at Medicine Hat

For leading the procession of real, outspoken political optimists the medal must be handed to the Medicine Hat News. The News, be it said, is the personal organ of the Hon. Charlie Mitchell, who wanted to get elected in Medicine Hat some two years ago mainly because of a promise to build a provincial telephone building in the Hat. Well, Charlie didn't get elected, and we haven't heard whether the Hat got that building or not. It would be just like Charlie Mitchell to forget that Medicine Hat people needed telephones down there, so occupied is he in trying to "put it over" certain other members in the Sifton cabinet and to pull down a job on that Utilities Commission, which is to be appointed, presumably to check up the huge (?) number of utilities which the Hon. Charlie's government has built at grossly inflated charges, except when the contracts have been carried out by Doukhobors; and which will possibly, at the same time see that all the employees vote right, as well as trying to discover how it is that thousands of telephone instruments are being taken from people's walls and thrown into the scrap heap, where nobody will say "Hello!" to the Hat.

But about the political optimism of our contemporary. Now, just listen to this outburst, extracted from the midst of a long editorial which was published a few days ago, and which trims the "Rogers-Borden machine" to a fare-you-well. (Notice the "Rogers" is first, signifying, apparently, that he is the motorman, the chauffeur, or something like that). But here is the outburst, and as may be inferred, it evidently came in a moment of weakness, just after waking up to the fact that there was, a few days ago, a provincial election, down in that staid and peaceful old province of Prince Edward Island:

"The Liberals on the island put up a magnificent battle against privilege enthroned at Ottawa and Charlottetown, and, practically defeated the Tories."

The only sad part of it is that, according to the same cruel code of political procedure which eliminated the Hon. Charlie from the Hat, the Grits down in P. E. I. didn't get enough votes, which would indicate that they defeated the Tories just about the same as Charlie defeated them in Medicine Hat, despite the promise of that big building.

But harken, kind reader, and list to the great issue by which the progressive, enterprising, aggressive, modern, Liberal exponents of popular and representative government nearly put it over in the battle "against privilege enthroned at Ottawa and Charlottetown."

What was it? Why nothing more than the automobile. "Privileged, enthroned Ottawa and Charlottetown" thought the time had come in P. E. I. when motor cars should be permitted to roam the city streets without having an advance agent to fix things with the horses. (And the Liberals of the Island "put up a magnificent battle against this privilege." And now the Islanders are going to be permitted to have joy rides, no matter whether Henry Ford and John D. Rockefeller like it or not.

The News man indicates elsewhere in his article that the "Rogers machine" may "plunge" this country into an awful election during the same war that it will be memorable in Canada partly because, even while the cannons roared and the Hun's spouted, elections were pulled off in New Zealand and in South Africa, the Grits climbed into power in Manitoba, and the "Liberals on the Island put up a magnificent fight" without dislocating a single brick in the British constitution.

However, in view of the magnificent fight put up by the progressive (?) Liberals of P. E. I. could not the News convince the Hon. Charlie Mitchell of the possibilities of an anti-automobile or anti-"machine" plank in the Alberta Grit platform at the next election—which may also come off before the war is over? It would be a fine thing to abolish automobiles and "machines" from this province. The "Rogers-Borden machine" would never get past the boundary, the supporters of the Hon. Charlie could walk to the polls, and the Medicine Hat News could do its joy-riding in an ox-cart.

But, if the Grit party can put up such a magnificent fight in P. E. I. by tabooing the modern motor car, what does Medicine Hat want with a telephone building? A megaphone ought to do the Hon. Charlie.

SOMETHING UNUSUAL

A dispatch from Ottawa says that the department of agriculture has made an offer to the British war office to supply canned and dressed meats for the British army for a six months period to the limit of Canadian production. What this evidently means is that the department has made tentative arrangements with Canadian packers and live stock interests of the Dominion and on the strength of them has approached the imperial authorities with a business offer. The object is to stabilize the meat and live stock prices of Canada during a period when they might otherwise be subject to much fluctuation; also to assure to producers and manufacturers of meat products a steady and reliable market for their output and stimulate production.

For a government department to undertake such work as this is unusual, but we are living in times when the usual thing is the unusual and when practice or precedent is something which counts for little. If the proper safeguarding provisions are embodied in any agreements made there is no reason why this should not prove a real service to the agriculturists of Canada, provided, of course, that the contract is secured.

And the whole business, taken in connection with other activities of the Borden government with respect to ocean freight service and the prompt handling of the grain crop within the Dominion, is illustrative of the determination of the government to make itself of real use to the people of Canada, even though in doing so it may be necessary to blaze new trails.

Will Alberta Liquor Interests Dare to Ask for Compensation?

Edmonton, Oct. 6.—On the surface there's apparently little doing in political circles at the capital these days, despite rumors that there may be a fall session, and that next March or April might see an appeal to the country, with the idea of having it over before an inevitable Dominion election some time next summer. Nevertheless, in spite of this surface tranquillity, well-informed politicians outside of the government are authority for the statement that there is just now hatching one of the most important political developments that Alberta has seen for many a day—or at least the possibility of political developments as a result of the hatching.

These happenings, it is stated, have to do with compensation for the liquor interests; and while the scheme is not believed to have fully matured, it is intimated that when the legislature next meets, and when provision will have to be made for putting the Prohibition Act, recently carried into effect, compensation will have become a very live issue. It is not exaggeration to say that the result of the vote on July 21 completely flustered the liquor men. They believed they had a chance to defeat the Act, and none of them ever imagined there would be such an overwhelming majority in its favor. Even if it were carried, the brewery and hotel interests, it is said, cherished the belief that the result would be so close as to justify them in asking for a compromise in the shape of beer licenses, which would have kept the breweries operating, and not have resulted in a closing of the bars of the province. Even after recovering from the shock, some of the liquor men appeared to still have hopes of some concession; and at a meeting in August there was a disposition on the part of the brewery and hotel men to swing away from the whiskey interests. The former hoped by so doing to be able to make a bid for beer licenses, while among the latter there were murmurs of testing the legality of the act.

After a careful survey of the situation, however, the liquor people apparently gave up these ideas, and during the past few weeks word has gone out for a complete reversal of tactics. Compensation is the plea which the liquor men propose to put forth, and upon that they propose either to stand or fall, the object being, of course, to prevent financial loss. This, it may be said, is to be the liquor men's platform in Manitoba where the next fight is. This action, it is also declared, comes as the result of the pressure of the big distillery and wholesale distributors of eastern Canada, who see heavy financial losses unless they can be recouped through a measure of compensation to the Alberta liquor men. That, too, represents the attitude of the brewing interests, which are heavily interested in Alberta hotels and probably stand to lose most as a result of the passage of the act.

Realizing that the public has given its verdict and that nothing need be expected therefrom, these distillery and brewery interests, it is asserted, are going right to the seat of the Alberta legislative throne with their requests. In other words, they propose to invade the legislature and attempt to show such a formidable strength that the legislators will hesitate before ignoring their demands. For this purpose, it is stated, a substantial fund has been created through the contributions of those who stand to win or lose, and with this money it is the intention to wage a fight at Edmonton, which has as yet had no equal in the legislative history of the province, with the best legal advice procurable, and the aid of the heads of many of the most powerful financial institutions doing business in Western Canada. These latter, it is declared, are also going to suffer considerably if the act goes into effect without any compensating proviso, and they are prepared to wage a battle in favor of vested interests which will be memorable in Alberta.

For several weeks past, it is stated, men prominent in the liquor business within this province have been exerting their influence not only upon private members of the legislature, but also upon several of the cabinet ministers, with the idea of securing a committal in favor of compensation.

LABOR MEN OBJECT TO EARLY CLOSING OF BARS IN ONTARIO

London, Ont., Oct. 7.—By a vote of 40 to 32, the Toronto district Trades and Labor Council tonight endorsed the action of the executive which appeared before Premier Hearst and his colleagues, and protested against the cabinet's reported intention of ordering closing of the bars at seven o'clock. An amendment that a referendum by organized labor on the question should be taken was turned down.

Hamilton, Ont., Oct. 7.—The Trades and Labor executive tonight appointed two representatives to visit Toronto tomorrow and join with local labor unions in a protest to the Ontario premier against any change in the law governing the closing of bars.

Bars Should be Closed or Selling Hours Shortened

SOME TIME AGO—a few weeks after the overwhelming vote in favor of Prohibition—The News-Telegram took occasion to point out that, in view of the verdict, the interests of this community and this Province would be best served by an immediate closing of the Hotel Bars, even if state compensation were necessary in order to accomplish that object. This paper even went so far as to suggest that, in consideration of the great public good which would result, the closing of the Hotel Bars would be cheap at the price of compensation; and that the proper thing to do would be to have a conference of the temperance people and the liquor men, together with representatives of the Government, with the idea of working out an arrangement whereby the Open Bar would cease to be a going concern within the Province.

The closing of the Bars was not a new policy of The News-Telegram at that time. For many months before we had had an opportunity of seeing for ourselves the demoralization wrought by the Open Bar, its excessive charges, and its habit of putting a premium upon the consumption of Whiskey and Strong Drink. A year ago, in offering some few suggestions which would tend to alleviate the effects of unemployment, the editor of The News-Telegram put forth the recommendation that the Open Bar in the city of Calgary and other centres of population should be closed at six or seven o'clock.

In view, perhaps, of a forthcoming vote on Prohibition throughout the entire Province, those suggestions, apparently, fell upon deaf ears. Yet, if they had been acted upon, and if even that small measure of curtailment of the consumption of Strong Drink had been provided, MANY A WOMAN AND LITTLE CHILD WOULD HAVE BEEN SAVED SOME OF THE HARSHIPS OF THE WINTER OF 1914-15.

It is scarcely necessary to point out that conditions have not improved in this respect within the last year. There has, probably, been a little more employment and perhaps more men have been working, especially during the past few months. But today there is the same menacing Open Bar as there was a year ago; and, because of the fact that nearly every able-bodied man is now at work helping to garner the crop, and incidentally making some money to tide him and his family over the coming winter, the menacing nature of that Open Bar is greater than it was at this time last year.

THE FACT THAT THE PEOPLE OF ALBERTA HAVE VOTED OVERWHELMINGLY AGAINST THE OPEN BAR HAS NOT IMPROVED CONDITIONS. BUT IT HAS SHOWN THE GOVERNMENT OF THIS PROVINCE THAT THE PEOPLE DO NOT WANT THAT BAR.

And, despite the aversion to it, which has been expressed by the people, all that is necessary to demonstrate that its demoralizing influences are worse than ever is a casual survey of the conditions which are confronting us every day. That those conditions will be worse in the near future than they are today needs hardly to be told to the man who realizes that thousands of men will be back from the farms to the cities within a few weeks, with their earnings of the harvest season. THIS IS THE LAST YEAR OF THE OPEN BAR IN ALBERTA; THE INTERESTS WHO OPERATE THOSE BARS ARE NOT GOING TO LET THE GRASS GROW UNDER THEIR FEET. THEY ARE OUT TO MAKE A "CLEAN-UP," AND THEY ARE GOING TO MAKE A "CLEAN-UP" AT THE EXPENSE OF THE MAN FROM THE HARVEST FIELD, HIS WIFE, HIS FAMILY, AND HIS HOME, AS WELL AS AT THE EXPENSE OF THE LEGITIMATE BUSINESS MAN, IF THE OPPORTUNITY IS AFFORDED.

The question is: Is the Government of this Province going to permit the Eastern Whiskey Interests, which stand to gain most, to make a clean-up at the expense of the people of this and other cities who so badly need the money this year? Even if that aspect of the matter were forgotten altogether, is the present condition of affairs going to be permitted to continue at a moment when our people should be conserving their substance for the necessities of life? It is not necessary to enlarge upon the conditions in Calgary and other Alberta cities. They are about the same as have persuaded the License Commissioners of Ontario to close innumerable Bars. They are on a par with the conditions which have led the Manitoba Government to close many Bars within that Province. And they are such as to be obnoxious and loathsome to a people who have overwhelmingly voted them out of existence. But because the date of their passing is delayed some months is no reason why in the interval they should be permitted to create a chain of wreckage and demoralization that will last many months after their demise.

THE BARS OF ALBERTA SHOULD BE EITHER ENTIRELY CLOSED AT ONCE OR THE HOURS OF SALE SO SHORTENED THAT THE SALE OF WHISKEY WILL BE PERCEPTIBLY REDUCED. THERE WILL BE ENOUGH BURDENS UPON PUBLIC CHARITY THIS WINTER WITHOUT HAVING TO TAKE CARE OF THE PENNILESS PRODUCTS OF THE ALBERTA BAR. EVEN IF THIS PROVINCE HAD TO PAY A REASONABLE AMOUNT FOR THE CLOSING IT WOULD BE CHEAP AT THE PRICE.—Calgary News-Telegram.

Treating Prohibited in London, England

The authorities in Britain have decided to prohibit treating throughout the district of London, and restrict the action of the night clubs there. That is a good sign, and this curtailment hastens the time of total prohibition in Britain.

The London Times, previous to this last order, discusses the entire situation in this way:

Inquiries in official circles show that the restrictions with regard to the consumption of liquor imposed as a result of the work of the central control board have had a marked effect in all the districts which have been dealt with by that authority. The evil, however, has by no means disappeared or been so much diminished as to satisfy those who put the claims of the nation above all other considerations and interests. What has been achieved is a great, and it is hoped, a continuous decrease in the number of convictions for drunkenness. But much more remains to be done in this direction both by government action and lay effort.

It is vitally urgent that the good results attained in the North should be achieved in one metropolitan district and certain districts in the south west. It is perfectly clear from the result of careful investigation that other areas beside these already scheduled will have to be considered. It is too soon yet to judge what effect the orders of the central control board will have upon the output and upon the time kept at the yards. The latter still undoubtedly leaves much to be desired. It is, however, certain that the reduction in the amount of drunkenness and the improvement in public order, of which there is much evidence from all the areas scheduled, cannot but exercise a beneficial effect both on the time-keeping and the fitness and efficiency of the men when they come to their work.

THE SHORTNESS OF A CENTURY

A glance at the pedigree of the King of Bulgaria is illuminating in its demonstration of how short a time a century is in reality. It was in 1789, at the outbreak of the Great French Revolution, that the famous Duke d'Orleans—the first prince of the blood outside the royal family of France—scandalized the ruling classes of Europe by announcing his adhesion to the innovating principles of democracy. As "Philippe Egalite" he is one of the most conspicuous figures in the history of the revolutionary storm. Elected a member for Paris in the National Convention, he sat in that capacity as one of the judges of his cousin, Louis XVI., when that monarch was impeached before the republican legislative body, and openly voted for his execution. In the same year, he himself, prosecuted on a treason charge—apparently unfounded—was condemned and executed. His son, the young Duke de Chartres, became Duke d'Orleans by his father's death on the scaffold, resided abroad, keeping himself by giving lessons in mathematics and languages. The fall of Napoleon enabled the wanderer to return to France; and in 1830 the July Revolution summoned him to the throne "by the grace of God and the will of the French people." As Louis Philippe the First—fated to be the last—the "Citizen King" ruled till the upheaval of 1848 again drove him forth, this time to die in exile.

Princess Clementine, one of the daughters of the "Citizen King," whose chequered career terminated in England in 1850 was esteemed to be the cleverest woman in Europe. The widow of Prince Augustus of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, she felt that Ferdinand—her youngest and favorite child—possessed a special claim upon Providence. She resolved that he should be a king like his grandfather—and that by hook or crook. It even appears that she had the assurance of a gipsy fortune-teller that the youth should some day mount a throne, where-in we may recall reminiscences of Macbeth. Accordingly, Princess Clementine took the practical course, and prepared her son, from the cradle, for the career marked out for him by her and Heaven. He was whisked around Europe from capital to capital, habituated to the society of sovereigns, indoctrinated with the diplomatic subtleties of Machiavelli, coached in half a dozen languages, even in Hungarian, for no one could know whence the call to a crown might come, and it was needful to be ready to pounce at once upon the prey. It constitutes a charming idyll of maternal love—a modern inversion of the legend of the Roman matron who sacrificed her children to the state.

As things fell out, one day in 1887 there sat in a Viennese beer-garden a somewhat disconsolate group of Bulgarian statesmen, who were returning empty-handed from their quest for a possible Prince of Bulgaria—that state, it will be remembered, being then a principedom only. They had a throne to offer, but had found no bidders for the prize. All things considered, the reluctance of the European princelings was not surprising. Suddenly, to the commission that sat forlornly in the Viennese beer-garden, there entered a certain Major Laube. He learned their business—indeed, he knew it already, for in plain English he was the advance agent of the aspiring grandson of the "Citizen King."

"My dear gentlemen, there is just the man you want," exclaimed the major, pointing to a young officer in an Austrian uniform who was sitting near by—possibly accidentally, possibly not. "There, gentlemen, is Prince Ferdinand of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, grandson of Louis Philippe, King of the French, a cousin of every crowned head in Europe, and a favorite of the Emperor of Austria and the Czar." The gist of the matter is that the steamer that a year before had brought the dethroned Alexander I. of Bulgaria up the Danube to Vienna conveyed Prince Ferdinand down the river en route to Sofia. The rest of the story is written in the chequered history of Bulgaria since its independence of the Turks. Across it all we clasp hands with one of the most lurid figures of 1793.

London, Oct. 7.—The German ministry has announced that owing to a scarcity of copper all chandeliers and lighting apparatus as well as works of art such as statues will be taken over by the government, says an Amsterdam dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph company. Lighting appliances not in daily use will be taken first, but it is stated that the government soon will have to seize all the copper in Germany.

Mr. and Mrs. Adamson and family, who left here three months ago to visit relatives in Iowa, also the Exposition in California, have returned, although they went with the intention of remaining a year. Mr. and Mrs. Stutheit, of Edwall, Wash., who were here ten days ago, decided to give up the land purchased from the C.P.R. here last fall, and have purchased three quarter sections of Henry Williams, and will move up with their family in the spring.

Blackfalds News

On Sunday afternoon the annual thanksgiving service was held at St. Jude's Church. The church had been beautifully decorated, and there were large donations of flowers and vegetables. The congregation was very large, the seating accommodation being insufficient, and chairs had to be borrowed from the neighboring houses. The Lacombe choir attended, and were a valuable addition to the service. They rendered the anthem, "Yet shall dwell in the land." The two solos were effectively sung by Mrs. Patstone and Mr. Bird. The sermon was preached by the Rev. A. J. Patstone, who gave a most appropriate address. The Rector wishes to thank Dr. Simpson, Mr. Denke, and Mr. Ward, for their kindness in conveying the members of the choir in their automobiles to and from Blackfalds.

THE ANGLICANS HELPED

Alberta people generally were somewhat surprised at a statement of an Edmonton Anglican minister, at the synod meeting in Toronto the other day, to the effect that "the Anglicans were expected to defeat the Prohibition Act" voted upon in this province some two months ago. Perhaps that was the opinion of the liquor forces, but it is safe to say that very few people cherished any such belief. The Anglican church, of course, has always been looked upon as pretty broad in its views on the temperance question; and on more than one occasion that fact has permitted the whiskey interests to defeat prohibitory legislation. It can also be said, perhaps, that Anglicans are not total abstainers to the extent that some other denominations are. Yet, neither with the Anglicans or any other class will that old "guff" about "sacrificing personal liberty" longer hide the real motive behind anti-liquor legislation. The day has gone by when apologists for and defenders of the whiskey traffic can be found in any church, so far at least as Canada is concerned. Old John Barleycorn has had a somewhat extended career, and in the past he has had some apparently strong and even outspoken admirers within the church. But the result of John's sovereignty has not been conducive to the welfare either of the church or its people, and the inevitable outcome has been a general turning against Mr. Barleycorn, whose history shows a disposition to take all and return nothing. Even among those who have been looked upon as moderate drinkers—and among whom are many Anglicans—the feeling has been growing that Barleycorn has to go, and the overwhelming vote against him in the province of Alberta was, swelled perceptibly by those in the Anglican church who had reached that very wise conclusion.

ST. CYPRIAN'S CHURCH

Sunday, October 17.—Children's Day in the Church of England in Canada. There will be special services in St. Cyprian's Church at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m., with appropriate music and sermons. Parents are invited to bring the children.

Special Thanksgivings and Intercessions of a national character were offered in St. Cyprian's Church on Sunday last. The Rector preached in the evening from the text in I Kings, 2:2—David's dying words to Solomon—"I go the way of all the earth; be thou strong therefore and show thyself a man." Being and doing were the keywords of the message. The duty of each generation is to be so consistent and true that there shall be handed on to the succeeding generations those principles that make for true national greatness. It is a matter for great thanksgiving that God has brought such success and such provision for the Empire today. The preacher believed that at the bottom of the greatness and integrity of the Empire is the love of Christian truth on the part of the founders and leaders of the Empire, and the religious training of the young. Among other things said was a reference to the recent discussion of the National Anthem in the General Synod of the Church. The preacher closed by remarking that this generation is passing through great and wonderful experiences, and that the next generation will be what we make it.

LOCAL IMPROVEMENT DISTRICT NO. 308

The Council for Local Improvement District No. 308 met in Alex on Thursday, the 30th day of September, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon. All the members of Council were present, B. F. Alhain in the chair. Minutes of previous meeting were read and approved. The Department advised that an Inspector would return in due course to make an audit of the Districts books to date. The question of survey in the S. E. 25-40-23-4 was discussed at considerable length by the Council, a resolution being moved that as the original road allowance between S. E. 25-40-23-4 and S. W. 30-40-22-4 being left open would form a Cul-de-sac (blind alley or trap) to the general public using the highways, that the survey around the west side of the lake in said Sec. 25 made prior to 1915 be allowed to stand as it was. Vote—For 3, against 3. Resolution negatived. Council resolved to borrow $1400 from the Merchants Bank for three months in order to pay off all accounts rendered and day labor on roads. Summary of accounts passed for payment, viz.: Labor, $3279.42; lumber, $393; nails, $4.90; tools, $0.25; Sec. Treasurer, $137.50.

CLIVE EDITOR QUILTS

The editor of the Clive Record has quit after a few months of good endeavor in that thriving town. In his valedictory he says:

"It is a somewhat unpleasant duty that falls to our lot this week. It is always hard for us to say good-bye, and as the years roll on, the task becomes almost an impossible one. This issue of the Clive Record will be our last. This may come as a surprise to many, but having the opportunity of disposing of the business to J. H. Salton, of Mirror, we decided to let it go while the going was good."

DEHORNING AND PREVENTING HORN GROWTH IN CALVES

While the dehorning of cattle has raised a deal of controversy, the practice has become so common as to be recognized as good practice. In the general herd, or in the strictly dairy herd, the animal with horns is dominant over the weaker animals. This creates an inequality in the herd, which few dairymen like. With some systems of dairying, cows with horns give additional labor to the caretaker, for instance in tying and in general handling. Dehorning the cow is both protection for her and those who care for her.

After studying the results at 11 experimental stations, one well-known authority concluded that dehorning dairy cows caused a loss of about 8 per cent. in yield of milk, while the loss of butter fat is nearly zero. The Connecticut experiment station, after dehorning the station herd, states: "The worry, pain, and cruelty of animals to their mates is eliminated when these instruments of torture are removed, and the lack of fear and the quiet contentment of the individuals of the herd is at once noticeable. The benefits from dehorning dairy cattle cannot be accurately measured, but there is an almost unanimous opinion in its favor among those who have practiced it in their herds."

Two methods are practiced in the removal of mature horns, i.e., by using either saw or clippers. Both have their advantages. The former is a slower process, the pain is probably more severe, due to the length of time required, but since the blood vessels are not cleanly severed, less hemorrhage is produced and consequently the loss of blood is not as great as when clippers are used. The instrument commonly used is a jointing saw. The clippers do the work with greater dispatch, thus limiting the severe pain to a very short time. There is a greater loss of blood due to the sharp cutting effect of the instrument upon the blood vessels.

Whatever instrument is used, the cut must be uniformly made on a line sufficiently under where the skin joins the horn, or just below the issue, from which the shell of the horn develops, to give the proper results from the work. The cut must not be too high or profuse bleeding will result, besides a gnarly growth of horn is apt to appear. Cold water is the only dressing needed. Care should be taken to keep out filth and infection.

Animals may be dehorned any time except in fly time or zero weather. The former time is conducive to fly blowing. The cavities become filled with maggots and cause great agony to the animal. On account of the frontal sinus being opened, zero weather is conducive to colds and catarrh, for cold air is drawn through the cut.

Prevention is always better than cure. Horns may be stopped from growing upon the calf, cheaply and with practically no pain at all. There are several chemical preparations upon the market, but none can be cheaper or simpler than the use of a stick of common caustic potash. This chemical may be obtained in small sticks. A few cents will buy enough for several calves. The stick may be handled, when applying, by wrapping paper around one end, although the stick is not particularly dangerous to the fingers if the latter are wiped or washed immediately after handling.

The calf should be less than three days old. However, an animal may often be successfully operated upon if under three weeks of age. The little fellow should have the hair clipped about the embryo horn, the potash stick dipped in cold water and applied for about ten seconds. The other side may be similarly treated. By this time the first side will be dry and may be re-treated. Thus, after both sides are re-treated, the job may be considered finished, and if the caustic has been properly applied, the calf will never grow horns.

The potash should be kept on the horn button and away from the live tissue, as it is very corrosive. The calf should also be kept out of the rain, for the caustic may wash into the eyes and do serious harm.

BIG CONVENTION OF LIBERALS IS SUGGESTED

Ottawa, October 12.—The Ottawa Free Press contains the following in its news columns this afternoon:

It is proposed that a national Liberal convention should be called. The question is under the consideration of leaders in Ottawa, Toronto, Montreal, and elsewhere. An announcement may be expected shortly of the proposed date of gathering, which would include representatives from every part of Canada.

The organization of such a convention would require much preliminary preparation, which hardly could be accomplished in less than a year.

It is estimated that this would bring the convention on after British arms had achieved victory and a triumphant peace had been declared. The Dominion of Canada, as well as the countries of Europe are all likely to be in the reconstruction stage. The conference of representatives of the progressive Canadian party, it is thought, would be most useful at this stage of the country's affairs.

It is twenty-two years since the last Liberal Convention was held in Canada. Since it met, the Liberals went into power and went out again. The principles declared at that convention had the opportunity for the tests of both time and administration.

It is not proposed that the convention, though a party one, should be of a highly partisan character. It is not the achievement of office, but the enunciation of principles, which the promoters of the convention have in mind.

In the twenty-two years which have elapsed since the last great Liberal convention Canada has developed. The declaration of principles then made should be enlarged in the views of many.

It is felt that it would be only fair to the party leaders that they should have the opportunity of meeting the Liberal party in convention and giving an account of their stewardship.

SERBIA IS BEING ATTACKED FROM NORTH AND EAST

London, Oct. 12.—Serbia is now being attacked from the north and the east. The Austro-Germans, after their capture of Belgrade and Semendria, are advancing southward, while the Bulgarians have sent forces to endeavor to interrupt communications north and south of Nish, the wartime capital of Serbia, and attack the Serbs on the flank if they are driven back by the German Field Marshal Von Mackensen.

The situation is admitted to be a very serious one. It is asserted that the Serbians are inflicting very heavy losses, both on the Austro-Germans and Bulgarians, but with their army of about a quarter of a million men they are believed to have little hope of making any prolonged resistance.

CARIBOO RANCHER SENTENCED TO DIE

Vancouver, Oct. 6.—Albert I. Chinger, a Cariboo rancher, was yesterday sentenced to be hanged at Kamloops, December 22 for the murder of his former partner, Ed. Smith. Last March the men started from their home for Vancouver. Arriving at Ashcroft, Chinger reported that his companion had disappeared while they were coming down the Cariboo trail. An investigation showed that Smith's body was found in a thicket a mile from the roadside, and that he had been shot through the head. An investigation showed that two men had come together at the spot where the murder was committed, while the tracks of one were found in the snow, leading from the scene of the crime to the road. The tracks fitted with Chinger's boots and papers belonging to Smith were found in his pockets. Chinger protested his innocence to the judge as he was being sentenced.

TWO NEW MINISTERS HAVE BEEN SWORN IN

Ottawa, Oct. 6.—E. L. Patenaude, M.P.P. for La Prairie, was sworn in at noon today by the governor-in-council as minister of inland revenue in the Borden cabinet, and will stand for reelection in Hochelaga for the Dominion House.

Hon. H. E. Blondin was sworn in as secretary of state, having been moved up from the inland revenue portfolio to succeed Hon. Louis Coderre, who has retired from the government to take a position on the superior court bench in Quebec.

PRESIDENT WILSON TO TAKE SECOND WIFE

Washington, Oct. 6.—Woodrow Wilson, president of the United States, announced tonight his engagement to Mrs. Norman M. Galt of Washington. The date of the wedding has not been fixed, but it probably will take place in December, at the home of the bride-elect.

The brief announcement from the White House, made by Secretary Tumulty, came as a surprise to official Washington, but to a number of intimate friends it has long been expected. From this circle came tonight the story of an engagement, whose consummation was viewed as a happy turn in the troubled and lonely life of the nation's chief executive.

It was Miss Margaret Wilson and her cousin, Miss Jones, who drew Mrs. Galt into the White House circle. They met her first in the early autumn of last year, and were so much attracted by her that they sought her out more and more frequently, and the friendship between them rapidly ripened into an affectionate intimacy. Mrs. Galt spent a month this summer at Cornish, as the house guest of the President's eldest daughter. It was through this intimacy of his daughter and cousin that the president had an opportunity to meet and know Mrs. Galt. Mrs. Galt is the widow of a well-known business man of Washington, who died eight years ago, leaving a jewelry business that still bears his name. She has lived in Washington since her marriage in 1896. She is about 55 years of age, and was Miss Edith Bolling, born in Wytheville, Virginia, where her father, William H. Bolling, was a prominent lawyer.

COAST HORSE VENDOR PAID $25 AS COMMISSION

Vancouver, Oct. 7.—Robert Dixon, of the firm of Dixon Bros. and Shultz, contractors, today started the crowded courtroom where Sir Charles Davidson is conducting an enquiry into the purchase of horses for military purposes by saying that his firm had paid a commission of $25 to Dr. C. M. Henderson, examining veterinary surgeon for the remount commission. The commission was paid upon the purchase by the military authorities of 11 horses. Mr. Dixon said and he added that failure to pay commission on a subsequent sale resulted in the refusal of the purchasing agents to examine a further lot of horses he had for sale. Dixon's statement was corroborated by the evidence of his brother Gordon, who was sharply questioned by the commissioner. Sir Charles—Was it your purpose, Sir, to bribe public officials?

"No, Sir," said the witness, coloring.

"This is a criminal proceeding and I am giving you full opportunity of justifying your conduct," warned the court.

"Well, he came and got the money—and, and—" hesitated the witness, "and I guess he got the horses cheap enough."

According to the statement made by Robert Dixon his firm offered the purchasing agent, Mr.

F. H. Cunningham, of the fishery department, New Westminster, 31 horses. Mr. Cunningham and Dr. Henderson came to his stables to examine the horses. They were tested out in the lake and were thoroughly examined and Mr. Cunningham purchased 11 head, making out a separate check for each animal.

"Was any commission paid to anyone?" asked Mr. John Thompson, K. C., commission counsel.

"Yes, $25," was the reply.

Instantly the courtroom was in a state of excitement. Sir Charles Davidson leaned forward and fixed his eyes intently on the witness.

"I paid $25 to Dr. Henderson," continued Dixon. "He came down at night and I wrote him out a check for that amount. He took it and went as far as the door, and then came back and said he wanted it in negotiable stuff."

Under Mr. Thompson's questions Dixon went on to explain his statement. He said that following the purchase of the horses Dr. Henderson had come down to his stables and after having a talk with his brother, the latter had told him to write out a check for $25, saying that Henderson wanted money and that they had better give it to him. The doctor had taken the check as he had explained and then requested that it be changed into money. Another check was consequently written out in the firm's name and the witness had taken it to the Ritz Cafe where he cashed it, and returning had placed the money in an envelope on which he wrote Dr. Henderson's name, and then paid him the money. Witness exhibited the check.

WHAT ALLIES PROMISED BULGARIA

London, Oct. 8.—A Petrograd despatch to the Daily Telegraph says:

"The history of the negotiations with Bulgaria issued here shows that, in July, 1914, Bulgaria was informed that she would secure substantial advantages by supporting the Russian policy, which aimed at the peaceful restoration of the Balkan league."

"In the following August, on demand of the entente powers, Serbia agreed in principle to surrender territory to Bulgaria in return for compensation at the expense of Austria-Hungary. Negotiations continued without success to secure Bulgaria's active assistance to the allies, or neutrality."

After Italy's intervention the allies made fresh proposals to Bulgaria for her active support to Bulgaria of Thrace to the Enos-Midia line, together with a guarantee that at the close of war that portion of Macedonia bounded by the line of Egri Palanka, Sopot, and Ochrida, including the towns of Egri Palanka, Koprili, Ochrida, and Monastir, and also pecuniary assistance."

"Bulgaria still raised objections, and on September 14 last the allies repeated their proposals, asking in return that Bulgaria should conclude a military convention with the allies with respect to her action against Turkey. Bulgaria's only reply to this was an order for mobilization."

NORTHCLIFFE TELLS OF DIPLOMATIC DEFEAT

London, Oct. 8.—"The Balkan collapse," declares the Daily Mail editorially, "is the result of a series of diplomatic failures such as have rarely been recorded in the history of any country."

The newspaper says that in Constantinople the British ambassador, Sir Louis Mallet, who was appointed in 1913, had no knowledge of Turkey or of the Turkish language, and that neither did any of his three secretaries.

"The position of this embassy was worthy of Alice in Wonderland," the Daily Mail continues, "and there is good reason to believe this embassy typified the British legations at the other Balkan capitals. The minister at Sofia was changed since the war began and few of his staff had been long in Bulgaria, so that King Ferdinand had no difficulty in deceiving them. Ostentatious negotiations went on for months while the Bulgarian monarch chuckled in his sleep at their simplicity."

"The third failure occurred at Athens. Britain appears to have counted on the active support of Greece, but in the twinkling of an eye comes the transformation and the friendly Greek premier vanishes. Of such a possibility our diplomats appear to have had no inkling. On such events as these, the fate of the empire may well depend. A diplomatic defeat is often the herald of a military defeat."

CANADA WILL FLOAT DOMESTIC WAR LOAN IN A FEW WEEKS

Toronto, Oct. 7.—Immediately following the harvesting and marketing of Canada's record crop the Dominion government proposes to "float a domestic, national patriotic war loan in Canada." The Hon. W. T. White, finance minister, made the announcement today during an address to the members of the Toronto Board of Trade.

The minister of finance added that it was at present premature to discuss the amount or terms of this proposed domestic war loan. It was not the intention to bring it on during the period of the heavy financing of Canada's crop movement, as such action would result in curtailment of credit to the farming communities. There was no need for haste, as the Dominion government had ample funds to provide for its war expenditure until the end of the year.

The reports which had obtained currency as to, a $150,000,000 war loan were, the minister declared, wholly without foundation. In fact, such a sum had never been considered in connection with a domestic loan, nor would it be required at any time. Any loan to be made blat, declares it to be the heaviest blow that could have been given the policy of the entente powers and that it confronts them with an extraordinary danger. Herr Wolff considers King Constantine's action, somewhat daring, but he argues that a revolutionary movement in Greece is improbable as the army is devoted to the king.

The same doubt is raised by the Frankfurter Zeitung, which asks which is the stronger—the king or Premier Venizelos. It considers inconceivable, as was the case in Italy, external compulsion, through street demonstrations in Athens might cause a reversion to the policy of the parliamentary majority, but only if M. Venizelos places himself at the head of a movement against the king, would it, in the opinion of this newspaper have a chance of success. "Germany will gladly greet Greek neutrality," concludes the Frankfurter Zeitung, "but if Greece does not remain neutral, we and our friends are ready."

The Lokal Anzeiger, thinks the maintenance of the sort of neutrality contemplated by King Constantine requires an unusual measure of sagacity and is only practicable when the parliament, the country, and the army are in agreement in regard to it.

WIN AT TAHURE OF GREAT VALUE TO THE ALLIES

Paris, Oct. 7.—The capture of Tahure apparently has silenced the critical and captious section of the public which was beginning to declare the advantages won in the battle of Sept. 25 were not being followed up last enough. The latest news seems to satisfy all and elates most military commentators. It is pointed out that while the capture of the village was fine, the storming of the heights nearby—the famous hill No. 199—gives a great strategical advantage.

This hillock was fortified in every imaginable way and bristled with cannon whose "barrier" fire blocked the way to any permanent advance of the French. It was considered one of the

WOMEN MURDERERS SENTENCED TO BE HANGED

Wetaskiwin, Oct. 7.—Mrs. Jennie Hawkes, who has been on trial here since Tuesday morning, was this evening found guilty on the charge of murdering Mrs. Rosella Storey at Lewisville, near Camrose, and was sentenced to be hanged at Macleod on December 29th next. In passing sentence, His Honor, Mr. Justice Ives stated accused had a fair trial, and he believed the jury were correct in their decision.

that kind of slavery, as it was set fifty years ago against African slavery. The world has turned its face toward Democracy. Fifty years hence, there will not be a crowned head in Europe.

"In the persons of Wilhelm and Franz Josef the Right Divine is making its last stand. Fully prepared, it thought to sweep all before it. Its fighting machine is relatively equal to the forces engaged to that of the Confederacy to the Union. It is winning great victories, just as the Confederates did. But its cause was lost when it fired its first gun. Its Vicksburg and Gettysburg are before it. No matter how long delayed, it will reach its wilderness. The world would not be fit to live in if such a combination could dominate its affairs. But with the defeat of the Kaisers there shall arise ultimate peace on earth, goodwill to men. Meanwhile to Hell with the Hohenzollern and the Hapsburgs, and all who willingly support and follow them!"

NEW GRADE OF SEED GRAIN IS PLAN OF GOVERNMENT

A new grade of wheat, oats, and barley has been put into effect by order-in-council of the Dominion Government.

This special grade will be known as the "seed grain grade" and certificates for this grade will be issued from the interior storage elevators at Moose Jaw, Calgary, and Saskatoon. The minister of agriculture will place seed inspectors at these elevators and grain sent out will be under certificate from them. A memorandum issued last week contains an explanation of the new grades. It says:

"The new government interior storage elevators at Calgary, Moose Jaw, and Saskatoon are splendidly equipped for cleaning and warehousing seed grain. They were designed to meet the very real need of proper facilities that would make practicable the handling of a special grade of wheat, oats, and barley, that are clean and suitable for seed. This grade will become effective about December 1, after which it will be given for carlots of clean grain of superior quality, including red fife and marquis wheat, white oats, and six-rowed barley, submitted for inspection and cleaning at any of the government interior terminal elevators. Warehouse receipts and certificates of grading will be issued as for the standard commercial grades thus making this grade conveniently available in commerce to farmers, seedmen, and grain dealers who sell seed grain."

"It is not to be supposed that this grade of seed grain is comparable with selected seed grain that is pure as to variety, grown by expert seedgrowers, subjected to special screening, and offered in the market at high prices. It is rather the object to provide a substitute for commercial grade that are more or less contaminated with weed seeds, and which have heretofore constituted the main source of supply of grain that has been used for seed. The nomenclature of the grades is as follows:

"No. 1 Canada Western Seed Oats shall be composed of 95 per cent. of white oats, sound, clean, and free from other grain. It shall be free from noxious weed seeds within the meaning of the Seed Control Act, and shall weigh not less than 36 pounds to the bushel."

"No. 2 Extra Canada Western Seed Barley shall be composed of the six-rowed variety, sound, plump, free from other grain, of fair color, free from noxious weed seeds, within the meaning of the Seed Control Act, and shall weigh not less than 48 pounds to the bushel."

"No. 3 Manitoba Northern Seed Wheat shall be composed of 85 per cent. of red fife or 85 per cent. of marquis wheat, sound, clean, and free from noxious weed seeds within the meaning of the Seed Control Act, and shall weigh not less than 60 pounds to the bushel."

"For seed purposes, red fife and marquis wheat shall be kept separate. "No grain will be accepted for seed which will require a large dockage to clean."

"The minister of agriculture is placing seed inspectors at each of the three interior terminal elevators, who will, supplement the work of the deputy grain inspectors, and be held responsible for the technical work of seed inspection in accepting carlots for seed and inspecting out all grain for which seed certificates are issued. With the excellent character of the grain crop in the prairie provinces this year, a very large quantity of grain of superior quality will doubtless be made available for seed at an advance in price over standard grades only sufficient to meet the extra two per cent. or three per cent. dockage in cleaning and the cost of cleaning, warehousing and sacking where the latter is ordered by purchasers."

TRADES UNIONS SEEK RECRUITS

London, Oct. 6.—An appeal for recruits for the British army was issued today by the authorized representatives of three national committees of trades unions, the parliamentary committee, the general federation of trades unions committee and the executive committee of the labor party.

The manifesto declares that tens of thousands of men of military age and fitness have not yet joined the colors. "Thirty thousand recruits weekly," the appeal declares, "must be raised to maintain the efficiency of our armies and secure such a victory as will free the world from the fear of that military tyranny which Germany would impose upon it."

The manifesto, which is addressed by the joint labor board to its "fellow countrymen," points out that at no time in the history of the nation has it been faced with a crisis of such gravity as now exists.

COMPRESSED AIR TANK EXPLODES TWO ARE KILLED

Winnipeg, Oct. 7.—A boiler-maker and a laborer were killed, and another laborer seriously injured when a compressed air tank exploded at the Peterson Manufacturing Company's plant in St. Boniface this afternoon. The men are Richard J. Simmons (married), and Peter Mudrej (married), both dead, and Alex. Guthrie (married), seriously injured.

The men were all ready to go home when the terrific force of the compressed air bursting cut the iron tank smashed everything in sight. A rush of splintered metal struck Simmons, tearing off both legs and gashing his head and body terribly. The air pressure struck Mudrej, and he dropped to the ground without a sound, limp and lifeless. Guthrie was struck with a piece of the flying metal and blown through the wall in a blast of bricks and debris.

WHY KAISERISM IS DOOMED

"Kaiserism is doomed," writes that outstanding American editor, Colonel Watterson, of the Louisville Courier-Journal, in one of the strongest articles that has come to the attention of the Globe, and it is so well worth reproducing that here it is:

"Almost to the end of our civil war the military advantage seemed to be with the Confederates. They could not win. The institution of African slavery was foredoomed. It was bound to go. Adhering to the South was bound to go with it. Thus it is with the Austro-German alliance. Its basic principle is despotism—the slavery of the Right Divine of Kings—the slavery of Absolutism. The whole trend of modern thought is as set against

GOVERNMENT MAKES A BUSINESS OFFER TO WAR DEPARTMENT

Ottawa, Oct. 8.—The minister of agriculture after a careful investigation of the live stock situation has forwarded to the British war office, through Sir George Perley, acting high commissioner, an offer of canned meats for army and navy purposes. The offer covers the entire possible output of Canada and consists of monthly supplies for the next six months.

It is hoped that the prices quoted are such as will receive favorable consideration. Negotiations have also been under way for some time in regard to shipping dressed beef and an announcement may be looked for shortly. If the war office accepts the offer for canned meats and also finds it practicable to place orders for dressed beef, there will be created in Canada a great demand for supplies that should steady and stimulate the Canadian live stock market.
